Course Overview

Many years ago, politicians, company presidents, celebrities (if they felt they can afford it) were a select few, who would utilize security when they were traveling. Currently, that mentality has drastically changed. Executive Protectors are used for family members, celebrities, judicial personnel and many other professions. Many of today's athletes are currently using Executive Protection while traveling. We all are aware of the reasons, a large increase in Executive Protection has occurred. Since the increase of terrorist's attacks, and a rash of incidents involving the nations celebrities, Executive Protection is a well sought after profession. However there are many Executive Protectors in the country that are know as "The fly by night People" these individuals may look the part, but when faced with a serious situation, they are over run or defeated, leaving their client in harms way. This happens most of the time because such protectors are not properly trained.

The Executive Protection program is an integrated academic and practical training curriculum, consisting of classroom instruction and practical shooting exercises with simunitions. The Executive Protection course will also include the following areas:

- Overview of Personal Security
- Working crowds at special events
- Use of personal weapons
- Use of Secret Service Techniques
- Use of State Department techniques
- Practical formation drills with SIMS
- Shoot Don't shoot with SIMS
